

Expert Project Assignment #6

Thursday, October 11, 2018

Exploring Other Types of Resources

What you have accomplished...

- You have selected a topic.
- You have gathered books.
- You have read through books.
- You have developed research questions.
- You have explored subtopics.

Congratulations!

This week:

1. Explore other types of resources; complete the attached check-list and create a list of your new resources (written or typed).
Challenge yourself to come up with 3 different types.
Be as specific as you can.
 - Which documentary?
 - Which website?
 - Who will you interview?
 - Where will you visit?
2. Add to or revise research questions as needed.
3. Continue or finish reading or tabbing your print resources.

Due Thursday, October 18, 2018

What's ahead...

Next week...

Draft a project proposal

The following week...

Start the note-taking phase! (You will need lots of notecards.)

Types of Resources

1. Use the check-list below to give you ideas for three new resources, beyond books, that you can use for your research. In addition to the three, consider who you will interview.

2. When you discover a resource you would like to use for your research, check it off on the list and on a separate piece of paper, record the title, web address, address, issue number, etc..

Print

- Informational Books
- Biographies/Autobiographies, Memoirs
- Reference Books
- Articles (magazine, newspaper)

Internet

- Websites
- Articles from online databases (check out Literati)

Audio/Video

- Documentaries
- Interviews (video, radio)

Primary Source Documents (originals or duplicates)

- Letters by or about the subject
- Certificates (birth, death, education, etc.)
- Journals, Diaries
- Original documents, diagrams, schematics, etc.
- Maps

Field Visits

- Exhibits
- Historical Sites
- Workshops/Factories

Other

Specialists – Who will you interview?