

I have been doing checkerboard this week. Ari and Emmy have been helping me. Checkerboard is multiplication. It's a colored felt rug and the colors are green blue and red. And it's so much fun. There is another work that I love and it's called grammar box. And I am working on contractions #5. It's basically putting words together for example she is = she's or let us = let's. And another thing we have been learning about is migration. We have this thing called our note and every morning we come in there is a note on the board. And the note this week has mainly been about migration. And we also have something called the quote. And it changes every week. This week our quote is "it seems impossible until it's done". There is also a work called handwriting and all of us do cursive some are higher than others.
