"Among the revelations the child has brought us, there is one fundamental importance, the phenomenon of normalization through work... it is certain that the child's aptitude for work represents a vital instinct; for without work his personality cannot organize itself and deviates from the normal lines of construction. Man builds himself through working."

“During normalization the child is becoming his best possible self and doing so without effort and with complete joy.”

“Love of work; concentration; self-discipline;
and sociability~
all characteristics of the normalized child.”

“The child, in fact, once he feels sure of himself, will no longer seek the approval of authority after every step.”
